These days many people spend hours looking at their phones. Why? A possible answer is that they just feel bored(无聊的). Why don't we like feeling bored?

What is boredom(无聊)?

Boredom is a feeling. There are two kinds of boredom: meaningless and difficult. The first kind happens when we don't find meaning in our actions. The second kind comes when people find it too difficult to do something. For example, students might say that "math is boring". That is because it's too difficult for them.

Is boredom bad?

Boredom is neither good nor bad. The most important is our good attitude(态度). For example, we may find a math problem boring. If we can't deal with our feelings well, we might just give up and feel bad. But things change when we can control (控制) our feelings and try to solve the problem.

Boredom can then become a good chance to learn new things.

Are we more bored now?

No, boredom is not a new thing. Over 2,000 years ago, people already felt bored. However, it's now much easier to get away from boredom because of things like phones. But because we're always using them, we might be worse at dealing with boredom.

83. How many kinds of boredom are there according to the passage?
