On the Chinese New Year's Eve, people in Italy throw out all the old things. So there are chairs, beds, clothes and plates in the streets. In Spain, the new year comes more quietly. In the evening, people come together to the streets. Each holds a bag of grapes. When twelve o'clock comes, people start eating the grapes. In Japan, people eat noodles on the Chinese New Year's Eve. They think noodles bring long life. Early the next morning, some families climb Mount Fuji. There they watch the first sunrise of the new year.

听第二篇短文，回答第 16 - 20 小题

Hello Kate. This is Susan. I called you but you weren't in. So I am leaving this message for you. I'm getting ready for my fourteenth birthday party. I'm sad you have such a bad cold that you are going to miss the party. I am wearing a long red dress to the party. My elder sister is doing my hair because she is good at it. Mum is making a delicious chocolate cake and Dad is blowing up balloons. We are going to have the party in the garden because it's a beautiful sunny day. My aunts, uncles and all my cousins are coming. But my grandparents aren't coming because they are on holiday in Hainan. We are going to have delicious food and drinks. I can't wait! I hope you will feel better soon so we can meet. See you soon!
