There was once a company in the USA that said it would offer a lot of money to anyone who could find a white marigold (金盏花). Most marigolds are golden or brown. It is very hard to find a white one.

Twenty years later, the company received a letter from an old woman. She sent 100 white marigold seeds (种子) along with the letter.

The woman was a fan of flowers. When she first heard the company's notice 20 years ago, she got very excited. She thought she could grow her own white marigolds. But her children doubted her. She knew nothing about seeds' genes (基因), after all. So her dream of growing white marigolds was just that - a dream.

Still, she worked to make it happen. She planted some common marigold seeds and took good care of them. A year later, when the marigolds bloomed (开花), she chose one of the faintest 淡的) flowers and took its seeds. She planted these seeds and waited another year for them to bloom.

(最

Day after day, year after year, her life changed. Her husband died, her children moved away, and many other things happened. But she kept growing all the time.

Finally, after 20 years, she went out to her garden and found a marigold that was not just white – it was as white as snow.

44. What did the woman's family think of her decision?
- Her children didn't believe in her.
  - They helped her learn about seeds' genes.
  - They studied marigolds themselves.
  - Her husband stopped her from growing flowers.
45. How did she grow the white marigolds?
- By painting the golden and brown flowers white.
  - By changing the marigold seeds' genes.
  - By choosing seeds from the faintest flowers.
  - By growing the strongest seeds.
46. Which of the following is NOT TRUE according to the passage?
- The woman loved flowers very much.
  - The woman was interested in seeds' genes.
  - The woman made her dream of growing white marigolds come true at last.
  - The woman sent some white marigold seeds to the company twenty years later.
47. What is the best title of the passage?
- Be Patient and You'll Go Far
  - What Happened to the Woman
  - The Woman Loved to Grow Marigolds
  - The Woman's Family Grow Marigolds for the Company

C

Have you ever bought Genki Forest (元气森林) sparkling water because it's advertised as "sugar - free"? The company recently apologized (道歉) for the wrong advertisement.

The company said the drinks are "sucrose - free"(零蔗糖), but this is not the same as "sugar-free". Now the company has changed the words "sugar-free" to "low sugar" on the bottles.

In fact, there are many kinds of sugar. Sucrose is just one of them. Other kinds of sugar, such as fructose(果糖) and sugar alcohol (糖醇), are still in Genki Forest drinks. These types of sugar are used as sweeteners (甜味剂). They offer little energy, but a bit of them can make drinks taste sweet. That's why diet drinks like Genki Forest are popular among people who want to lose weight. They believe that they can not only enjoy sweet drinks, but also don't take in too much sugar.

However, studies find that the sweeteners might make people eat more. When you eat sweet-tasting things, your brain knows it. Then your brain tells your body to prepare itself to take in energy. But since the diet soft drink has little energy, the brain will not receive what it is expecting. At this time, you will feel hungry and start getting energy by eating more food.

According to China Daily, drinking too many diet drinks might lead to obesity(肥胖) and type

2 diabetes(糖尿病). It's time for you to think twice about the diet drinks.

48. Why did Genki Forest recently apologize?
- A. For not having any sugar in its drinks.
B. For advertising its drinks incorrectly.
C. For making too many advertisements.
D. For incorrectly spelling words on its advertisement.
49. What do we know about Genki Forest from Paragraph 3?
- A. Its drinks taste sweeter than other drinks.
B. Its drinks have high levels of sucrose.
C. There are sweeteners in its drinks.
D. People can lose weight by drinking its drinks.
50. What do studies show about sweeteners?
- A. They might make people feel hungrier.
B. They are used more in food than drinks.
C. They provide enough energy for those on a diet.
D. They cause the brain to stop receiving energy.
51. According to the last paragraph, drinking lots of diet drinks can be _____ .
- A. fashionable      B. strange      C. enjoyable      D. harmful

D

"It's a waste of time, " I said when my mom told me to join Madcaps, a mothers and daughters club that helps charities. When she told me I had to volunteer at a homeless shelter (收容所), I thought that things could not get worse.

We got there late and walked to the dirty homeless shelter, where we saw a lady shouting at the guard. He helped her solve the problem and then led us to the kitchen, where we ran into other five Madcaps mothers and daughters.

Then homeless people started to walk in and a little girl, around 5 years old, walked up and pointed to the food I was handing out. I handed her a cold sandwich and she nodded to say thanks. She then walked over to her parents, who were seated at a large table.

As she walked away, I thought about how much I had. I went to one of the top schools in San Diego, I had a great house by the water, and I had a warm meal every night. Then I thought of how little she had. She probably didn't go to school, and this is where she sleeps and eats every day. That little girl made me realize just how lucky I am.

After that moment, I had a change of heart. Now, I love Madcaps and don't miss one meeting. I have got over being socially awkward (困难的) and now have many friends who I often play with.

I believe that if you have an open mind about things, you can learn a lot about yourself and the people in your community. You can make new friends and realize just how lucky you are. I believe you can make a difference just by doing something that you don't want to do.

52. What was the writer thinking in the underlined sentence in Paragraph One?
- A. She was happy to volunteer.      B. She wasn't sure what the club did.
C. She was in a situation that she didn't like.      D. She still refused to take part in the club.
53. What did the writer see in the kitchen when they arrived?
- A. A lady was shouting at a guard.
B. The kitchen was full of homeless people.
C. Nobody was in the kitchen.
D. Five pairs of mothers and daughters had arrived.
54. What does the phrase "get over" in Paragraph 5 mean?
- A. 屈服      B. 克服      C. 原谅      D. 擅长
55. What happened to the writer after her experience?
- A. She didn't miss anybody from the club.
B. She found it more difficult to socialize (交际).
C. She didn't worry about her life any more. D. She had a more open mind about life.

Not all heroes wear capes(披风). In fact, some walk around the streets to provide free treatment for homeless people's pets. Meet Dr Kwane Stewart, a 50-year-old vet(兽医)from California, the US.

Stewart always takes his bag with him wherever he goes. In this way, he can make a stop when he meets an animal in need or a homeless person with a pet. He has helped cure over 400 animals in the course of his 9-year service in the street. "About 25% of the homeless here own a pet," Stewart said. "A quick check up, maybe some medicine or food...it isn't a lot but sometimes giving a little can make all the difference."

Words about his work to help animals spread, and he ended up getting his own reality TV show(真人电视节目)---"The Street Vet". It follows him to cities in California, where he offers free check for the pets he sees in the streets.

Though many of his four-legged patients can easily be treated, Stewart does face some difficulties: some of the pets need treatment that can be very expensive. That is why Stewart now runs a GoFundMe page. "All donations will surely make a difference in the pets' and their owners' lives," Stewart writes on the page. He now has raised over ninety thousand dollars.

"Working on the streets, I've experienced some of the true stories of love and hope." says Stewart, who dreams of bringing more vets into the streets to help pets.

80. How long has Dr Kwane Stewart worked to help the pets in the street?
 81. What is the GoFundMe page for?

八、参考例文

This year will be the 100th Anniversary of the Founding of the Communist Party of China. We Chinese are proud of it. As a middle school student, I should do as follows:

First, I should follow good manners. It's impolite to shout loudly in public places. Besides, having good table manners is also important. I shouldn't make too much noise while eating or drinking.

Second, I should live a green life. For example, when I leave a room, I should turn off the lights. Also, I can bring my own shopping bags when shopping instead of using plastic bags.

Third, I will read good books in my spare time so that I can achieve more knowledge. In addition, I can donate my pocket money to charities to help people in poor areas.

On that day, I will watch the celebration on TV. I'm looking forward to watching it. I will study hard to make my country stronger.
