三、阅读理解 (共 7 小题; 每小题 2 分, 满分 14 分)

【A】

These days shared bikes are becoming the center of attention in my WeChat friend circle. Many of my friends are sharing photos of themselves riding bikes, especially during the weekend in natural parks, and I can see people logging in (登录) and out of shared bike apps.

I'm very happy that there are shared bikes on the road. They have saved us a lot of time during special situations, and on beautiful, clear days, people enjoy riding them outside the city.

I tried shared bikes last week, and I didn't like them very much. I think the first shared bikes without baskets are designed for athletes. They are very hard to ride, and the seats are not comfortable. It makes me wonder whether people really like riding shared bikes or are just saying this to agree with others.

A friend secretly told me she tried the bikes to fit in. She doesn't like bikes and finds Beijing's roads too hard for bike riding. But recently, the only way to hang out with her friends is riding out of town together. To join in social activities, she had to pick up bike riding again.

Another friend admitted that he started talking about and sharing photos on shared bikes in order just to appear modern and fashionable to friends. He started paying attention when shared bikes first came into use.

These views will give me something new to think about when I ride these bikes again.

1. What does the writer himself think of shared bikes?
 - A. They are very difficult to ride.
 - B. Their seats are comfortable.
 - C. Athletes like shared bikes.
 - D. They can save us a lot of money.
2. In the passage the underlined word "admitted" may mean .
 - A. told a lie
 - B. told the truth
 - C. kept a promise
 - D. kept a secret
3. Which of the following is NOT true according to the passage?
 - A. It can save time to use shared bikes at special time.
 - B. Some people only appear to be interested in shared bikes.
 - C. The writer likes the bikes without baskets because they are for athletes.
 - D. Some people like to share photos riding bikes because they want to agree with others.

My first home was a beautiful lawn with a pool of clear water. On one side of the lawn was a field and on the other was the house of our master, Farmer Grey. He was a kind man.

My mother and I had a happy life. She worked during the day, I played with the other young horses and had great fun.

One day, my master sold me to Squire Gordon. "You're a beautiful horse," he said. "You have a beautiful black coat. I shall call you Black Beauty."

I learned to carry my master on my back and pull a coach. I learned to wear reins (缰绳) and a bit in my mouth. I did not like them, but all the horses had to wear them.

My master had two horses. One of them was Merrylegs. He was very friendly. The other was Ginger. She was not friendly. She bit and kicked people. Ginger and I pulled a coach together. The coachman's name was John. Ginger and I worked very hard. We became friends.

Ginger told me about her life when she was young. She told me, "My master was not kind to me. My reins and bit hurt me. My master did not care."

Squire Gordon and his men felt sorry for Ginger. They were always kind to her. She stopped biting and kicking people. She became a happy horse.

One day in autumn Squire Gordon went on a long journey. John went with him and I pulled the coach. The weather was rainy and windy. Mr Gordon and John could not see well in the rain. We came to a bridge. I stopped. "Something is wrong," I thought. I did not want to go on to the bridge. Mr Gordon and John wanted me to go on to the bridge. I did not move. Just then a man saw us. "Hey there! Stop!" he cried.

"What is it?" shouted the Squire.

"The bridge is broken in the middle," he answered. "If you go on to it, you are all going to drown in the river."

"Thank God!" said the Squire. "Thank you, Beauty!" said John. We turned around and went along the road by the river.

Then John said: "Black Beauty saved our lives. He knew the bridge was dangerous. When we returned home, the Squire told Mrs Gordon: "We are all safe, thanks to Black Beauty!"

That night I was glad, because I was very tired.

--adapted from Black Beauty

If you want to know which social app Chinese young people use a lot now, you had better not miss "short videos". Some users use apps like Tik Tok and Kuaishou because they think it is fun to share short videos about their lives, while others have different purposes as well.

A 12-year-old user named Elsa has up to 2.7 million followers on Tik Tok. The girl has shared videos about her dancing studies since last July. One of the videos won her about one million fans. "I feel really happy to go on sharing happiness with other people by short videos," said Elsa.

As some videos are about the latest news, a group of users depend on them to get information. To some other users, they have a different purpose. "Because I can't spend many hours watching a complete video and I am a very impatient person. I don't like waiting for a program to end. I prefer to watch short videos of wonderful parts in a concert or a TV series," said Wang Zhihao.

However, some young Chinese feel bored with some short videos. "Killing time is the main reason for me to watch the short videos, but many are almost the same, so I think it is a waste of time. Moreover, I really don't like the videos which show strange even dangerous things," said Wen Nan, another college student.

Recently, something else has happened. Some videos are telling people what products are worth buying. Some users buy the products after watching, but they should think twice. If they don't think carefully, they may regret soon. Some short videos even sell fake (假) products, but these sellers won't let you return them to get your money back, or deal with your trouble.

Short videos in 1
An introduction to short videos	★ Short videos, including Tik Tok and Kuaishou, are very 2 now. ★ Some users share short videos for 3 , while others share for other purposes.

Possible version :

Hello, everyone. My name is Li Mei. I'm very glad to have a chance to give a speech here. My topic is how to protect the environment because our environment is changing for the worse. We have only one Earth. It is our duty to protect it.

On one hand, we can save water by taking shorter showers and turning off the tap when we brush our teeth. We should also reuse water if possible. Our natural resources are limited. Therefore, it is very important for us to use them wisely. If they are used and thrown away carelessly, finally some of them will run out.

On the other hand, the Earth is the home not only for human beings but also for wild animals. We can plant more trees or build more nature reserves. If we act to improve the environment, more living things will be still on the earth.

In our daily life, we can develop some good habits. For example, we can take our own bags when shopping instead of using plastic bags. We can also separate waste into different groups so that it can be recycled.

In a word, it is important for us to develop a green lifestyle. Everyone should try his best to make a big difference to the Earth.

That's all. Thank you!
